

Tom Krebs

Currently acting as CEO and President at Innovative Hearth Products, a privately-held Fireplace, Stove and Insert manufacturing company based in Nashville, TN serving the residential new construction and retail hearth markets. He led the successful transition of the company under new ownership while overseeing the new product developed and product portfolio management for the company.

He is now spearheading major strategic shifts for transforming manufacturing footprint, IT integration to an enabler of innovation for the business, as well as integrating the finance organization to support business metrics and factory improvement.

Previously as Executive Vice President of Sales and Marketing, Tom led business development and marketing for the company for the past 19 years with a brief period at EarthCore Industries.

He began her career in sales with the Kawneer Company in the domestic Architectural Extrusion market and later joined Lennox Industries in 1993 as a National Account Executive serving the Commercial HVAC Retail Market.

Tom holds an BS from Michigan State University in Building Construction and currently resides in the greater Kansas City area.